RESEARCH REPORTS

No. 14

School of Human Science and Environment, University of Hyogo

Contents

How Language in News Portrays Environment and Economy: A Comparative Analysis of the Discourse of Television News before and after Lehman’s Fall
........................................................... Michiyo KASUYA (1)

The Role of Aging Education in China’s Aging Policies ................................................. Xia DENG (15)

Current Conditions and Issues of In-School Staff Development Using the Japanese Version of SCS: Through Analysis of Surveys for Kindergartens and Day Nurseries
........................................................... Hiroshi ASHIDA (21)
Ryo KADOTA, Takako NOGUCHI, Junko MINTOWA, Kiyozi AKITA Matasoshi SUZUKI, Yutaka ODA, Yumi YODOGAWA

........................................................... Misuyo TOYODA (41)

Nutrition Learning through Global Communication: A Practice in Virtual Fieldwork and Joint Class Project ........................................................... Naoko HIRAMATSU (51)

'Minka' in Harima: A Study on the Rating, Conservation and Practical Use ................................ Sakubo SHIGA (61)

The Difference in Semantic Structure between the Verb Phrases bake a cake and bake a potato ........................................ Hiroshi YOSHINAWA (71)

Theories of Life in Coleridge’s Biographia Literaria in Light of the Philosophy of David Hartley ........................................................... Waka ISHIKURA (81)

Sur P<incipite> de Madame Firmismi ........................................................... Yasushi OKUDA (98)

Published by University of Hyogo